

American Bases in Qatar and American Diplomats Worldwide as a Possible Target for Attack

During February 2009, one of the surfers in the Al-Faloja forum published aerial photographs of American bases in Al-Udeid and As-Sayliyah in Qatar. The photos are mostly taken from Google and the Global-Security site. They show gasoline tanks, armament storerooms, shelters, aircraft parking lots and various installations, together with explanations.¹ It should be noted that one of the surfers in the forum had already asked for details of the As-Sayliyah base, at the end of December 2008.²

American diplomats and security officials are an additional target. In February 2009, another surfer in the Al-Faloja forum called for the Mujahideen in Somalia, Saudi Arabia and the Magreb region, to kidnap American diplomats or security officials worldwide and exchange them with Sheikh Omar Abdel Rahman, who has been incarcerated in the United States since 1993.³
