World Summit on Counter-Terrorism

Terrorism's Global Impact

ICT's 10th International Conference
Interdisciplinary Center (IDC) Herzliya, Israel

Introduction

Welcome to ICT's 10th World Summit on Counter-Terrorism. As the Conference grows in importance every year, it continues to serve as one of the most influential meeting places for experts in Homeland Security and Counter-Terrorism – representatives who come from all over the world from diverse disciplines and approaches. The importance of the ICT's World Summit is not simply derived from the staggering number of participants, or their high level of experience and expertise, but also by virtue of the fact that – unlike other conferences- the ICT annual event includes four days of networking and collaboration between decision makers, government representatives, security services, first responders, police, the business sector and academia. These participants are provided with the unique opportunity to sit together, listen to lectures on current trends in terrorism, focus on new challenges and developments in countering the threat, and compare notes on policies, practices, successes and failures.

Hosting so many diverse delegates year after year is essential in establishing an international informal counter-terrorism network, crucial in countering one of the largest threats to collective security – the Global Jihadi terrorist network. Indeed, terrorism is a challenging and dynamic phenomenon. Terrorists are constantly engaged in a learning process, not only preparing new and more dangerous tactics and approaches, but also working to understand the counter-measures designed to defeat them. By anticipating such measures, terrorists are able to surprise their enemies time after time.

It is thus the responsibility of counter-terrorism-experts from every branch and discipline in the field – academia, law enforcement, business, the intelligence community, military and diplomatic circles – to be as innovative as the forces they seek to defeat. We must think outside the box and rely on collaboration and synergic efforts to find the best answers to address the challenges of terrorism. The ICT's World Summit was designed to serve as an effective platform to reach this end goal, challenging our minds and stimulating discussion and creative solutions. We wish all delegates a fruitful and productive conference this year.

Exhibition on Counter-Terrorism Policing

Wednesday, September 15th, 17:00-19:00 at the Interdisciplinary Center (IDC) Herzliya

The ICT is proud to announce that the Israeli Police will hold a special exhibition on Counter-Terrorism policing in the framework of the 10th International Conference.

The Exhibition will include a lecture on Israeli counter-terrorism police methodologies (with special emphasis on the challenges posed by the terror wave of 2001-2004), followed by a high-end display of technological and operational capabilities.

The Exhibition will provide a rare insight into the less-known aspects of CT police work, including command and control systems, advanced forensics in terror-attack scenes, effective use of volunteers, and collaboration vis-à-vis municipal authorities and private businesses.
